What is NSLA?

NSLA is an association for those involved in librarianship/library and information science at all levels and in all regions of Nova Scotia.

Its purpose is to facilitate the exchange of ideas, and to promote a forum for the discussion of issues amongst people concerned with library and information services.

Since its formation in 1973, NSLA has been involved in a number of national initiatives including the National Summit of Information Policy. NSLA is also committed to working on the Strategic Plan for Nova Scotia Regional Libraries.
